Technosoft Delivery Methods

Technosoft has years of experience in delivering software solutions in a global environment. Our software delivery model focuses on delivering cost effective, high quality and superior services to our customers through well-defined project plans, clear communication channels and industry standard software processes.

We offer clients following delivery models or a combination.

Technosoft has well defined processes that comprise the complete SDLC from business problem analysis to application maintenance support. Technosoft can develop following different Software development models based on your requirements.

Offshore Development:

We assist our clients in full or part of the software development life cycle. A thorough understanding of client's needs with an in-depth study and analysis of requirements precede the software development activity. The detailed design and development are carried out in our offshore center.

Project staffing is based on the requirement and delivery schedule. Project specific training if any is provided prior to the start of the project. Depending upon scope and complexity of the project, the team could work onsite at client's premises. The entire development life cycle is subject to stringent quality checks by our Quality Management System.

Dedicated Offshore Development Team/ Center:

The Dedicated Offshore Development Center involves creation of a facility that operates like the customer's own software services unit.

In this model, all resources, technical teams, hardware, software, office space and any other resources required by the client are completely dedicated to the client.

The client will have access to these resources on a continual basis and can choose to use them for any of their requirements.

This model offers a virtual ownership of the facility to the customer without bearing the associated overheads of handling resources, training, planning, administration, management, cultural overheads, etc

This type of engagement is helpful for companies who are well aware of benefits of offshore model and want to have a set proper controls and mechanisms to add processing power and a logical extension to their facility. Offshore development center is based on a partnership spirit with a long-term view. A dedicated team is reserved exclusively for client's project. This team is trained in the client's domain and technology area. Further, a process manual is formulated which reflects the standards, workflow, processes and methodologies, which are adapted for the client's Offshore development center.

The offshore development center acts as client's own extended development arm with control over project priorities without incurring management hassles. Offshore development center benefits client in terms of knowledge retention and resource availability apart from high quality deliverables at lower costs.

"Dedicated Offshore Team/center" has played a definitive role in helping our customers decide to partner with us. Our refined software development methodologies and processes deliver value to our clients at every stage.

Benefits of this approach are software development team's proximity to the client, dedicated expertise, and reduced learning curve on client specific business issues.

The offshore advantage with Technosoft

- ▶ Flexible cost structure and scalability: Offshore resources and costs are decided on a project-to-project basis and are based on the project requirements and your delivery schedules.
- ▶ Optimized costs: Offshore software development offers tremendous cost savings, in some cases up to 40-80% of your software services budgets.
- ▶ Critical client resources can focus on strategic issues: The client IT staff can focus their efforts on more critical issues and generate more value while outsourcing the execution of the software requirements.
- ▶ Technosoft has a history of consistently delivering software projects on time within budget. Our technical capability, domain knowledge and proven methodologies for outsourcing requirements ensure that your project will be finished on time-on budget and high quality.

Please call us to discuss your software development needs. We guarantee that you will be amazed with the results:
